More transparency for your production

Through centralized monitoring of the entire winding process, the SAHM SmartView solution gives you real-time control over your operations and enables a quick response to any deviations. SmartView shows you the status of each individual winding head – ready to wind, winding or inactive – and delivers precise information on remaining running times, doffing times, and actual and target values for key criteria. This clear, continuous visualization helps to identify potential weak spots at an early stage and to increase the efficiency of your production on a lasting basis.

Proactive support for smoothly running processes

SAHM SmartView delivers concrete information on necessary steps to be taken and targeted data for optimizations and adjustments in the production process, such as:

- Reloading after yarn break
- Troubleshooting after error messages
- Performance of reference runs after a restart

Flexible visualization for maximum insight

You can customize the display of your winding heads according to your production's individual requirements. Different display designs can be selected and up to 48 winding heads can be shown simultaneously on one page. The status of each winding head is clearly visualized with both color and symbol displays. This intuitive presentation delivers a clear view of operations – even in the most complex production environments.
